OBITUARY.

Died, of pulmonary consumption, at the residence of Esquire Boyd, Polk co., Tenn., Mrs. Julia Tunnell, in heryenr. Mrs. Tunnell was the daughter of M. J. Carrol, of Virginia. She was wedded to Mr. N. J. Tunnell in the year 18—. Subsequently they moved to the State of Missouri, where Mr. Tunnell died. She was left a widow in a strange land. Having no relatives to aid her there, she was induced to return to Tennessee, where she had friends. She made her home at her brother-in-law's, Erby Boyd, sr. In the year 18— she made a profession of the year 18— she made a profession of faith in Christ; joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and lived a consistent and exemplary member of the same up to the day of her decease.

The writer was not acquainted with sister Tunnell in her earlier life, but was fa-miliarly acquainted with her about eight years, and he is prepared to say of her that she was a christian, if good fruits are evidence. Naturally she was ardent in disposition, industrious in habit, and devoted to friends; but when these good natural qualities were ruled by religion she became at once a true follower of Christ, much devoted mother, and true friend to all. Her words were gentle and sin-cere, her soul was devotional and prayerful, and her life was smooth and hopeful. Sister Tunnell had been afflicted for years, yet she bore all her sufferings with patience, and murmured not at the ways of Providence. When able, she was a faithful attendant at Church. For some three years previous to her death she was not able to go to Church, but she often talked of her past walks about Zion, and insisted that the writer should keep up had so often worshipped God. The writer frequently visited the family with whom she lived, and as often talked with her about her condition, the cause of Christ, and her prospects of heaven, and he can say truly that he always found her calm and full of christian hope and fortitude. She often said that she knew she must die soon; but that death would end her sufferings and be the gate to glory. The writer saw and conversed with sister Tunnell about two weeks previous to her departure, and found her fully ready and well prepared to die. The next news he heard of her she had died and was buried. His first thought was, "she is gone to rest in Heaven, and his prayer was. O! may I see her in glory. Sister Tunnell is gone, gone from earth.

She left two daughters, sisters and brothers, and many much beloved friends to mourn her loss. Let me say, children, you had a good mother, one who prayed for you on her sick bed and often begged you to be good. Ol strive to meet your mother in glory. Your best friend is gone, trust in God. Sisters and brothers and friends, weep not for your sister and friend—she is happy now. All you can do to gain her society is to prepare to die.

J. L. Milburn.

Benton, Sept. 7, 1862.

Ben McCarty. SALLERSVILLE, MAGOFFIS CO., KY.

Mr. Icins: Permit me, through your paper, to pay a last tribute to the worth of a departed friend. The 43d Regiment Tennessee Volunteers, pays that trious to the worth of a departed friend. The 43d Regiment Tennessee Volunteers, which is for the present attached to Gen. Humphrey Marshall's Brigade, having for nine days marched over the heights and down the depths of the mountains and ravines of Eastern Kentucky, weary and foot-sore, pitched their encampment, on the evening of the 13th inst., along a narrow defile between two tall mountain spurs on Middle Creek, ten miles above Prestonsburg, and stationed pickets above and below the encampment to guard its only two approaches. The next morning, about three o'clock, the camp was aroused by the pickets firing off their guns and running into camps and announcing that a cavalry attack was being made upon us. This being the first thing of the kind that had ever taken place in the regiment, of course great excitement and confusion prevailed. The men had carried their guns for several days exposed to the rain and confusion prevailed. The men had carried their guns for several days exposed to the rain and dew, without an opportunity of rubbing them up-Some of their guns had been loaded for guard purposes, and these they began to discharge for the purpose of re-loading them, and others burst-ed caps to dry out the tubes of their guns. Some one unfortunately held his gun carelessly and shot Lieutenant Ben McCantri, of Captain Mc-Kamy's Co. (I.) through the head, an ounce ball and two buck shot injecting his termole and killing kamy's Co. (I.) through the head, an ounce ball and two buck-shot piercing his temple and killing him instantly. It was soon learned that the alarm was false, the pickets having mistaken some moving objects for an enemy; but the sad accident in Company I threw a deep gloom over the whole regiment, for Ben McCarty was with the regiment, as he was wherever he was known, a favorite. We placed his body in a wagon and sent it to Presstonburg for interment, and the regiment moved on in silence. No laughter or hallooing disturbed the quiot of that Sabbath morning. The silence and thoughtfutness of eight hundred men paid a last sad tribute of respect to the worth of their departed friend. I have seen many of the evils of this unholy war, and much of the suffering that it has brought upon our devoted people. I have seen our brave soldiers struck down by disease in camp. I have seen them struck down in action, and I have seen them waste away in hospitals; but I have never withersted. them struck down in action, and I have seen them waste away in hospitals; but I have never witnessed a scene so sad as the death and burial of an old friend among strangers, in the mountains of Kentucky. Many of our brave soldiers have fallen by the hand of disease, and many have been killed by the accidents incident to the care less handling of firearms, but to these ho loud peans are sounded—no newspaper articles are devoted to the praise of their gallantry; and yet none the less have they fallen in the service of their country. The Republic may not find room in its big heart for praise and gratitude to the man who is struck down by camp disease, or by an accident while doing his duty as a soldier, but none the less sad are the heart of his comrades and friends than if he bad fallen amid the roar of cannon and the rattle of musketry, in battle. And although he whose death I now chronicle never met the enemy in deadly conflict and signalized his devotion to his country by deeds of arms, we knew him as the true soldier, the high toned gentleman, and kind hearted friend; and our loss and the loss of his frinds in East Tennessee is none the less than if he had fallen in battle.

Died, September 21st, at her home, in Bradley county, Sanan BETTIE KNOX, oldest daughter of C. and M. J. Knox, aged 11 years and 9 of C. and M. J. Knox, aged 11 years and 9 months.

The king of shadows loves a shining mark, and truly he has plucked oue fairest flower. Sweet Estile was deservedly the pride of the household, and idel of her home. Gentle and affectionate in disposition, winning in her manners, none knew her but to love her, and those who knew most of her pure life, loved her most, a most devoted daughter, the joy and comfort of her parents, a kind loving sister, almost idelized by her little brothers and sister, her loss is a great bereavement. Her illness was brief but vory painful, we could not think she was going to leave us until the day before her death, we prayed "Father spare her, take her not from us."

"So young, Oh! Death withhold thy dart

"So young, Oh! Death withhold thy dart Look on her childish brow, Cruel and cold must be thy heart, To speed thine arrow now."

Cruel and cold must be thy hear!

To speed thine arrow now."

But the angels wanted our Bettie, she was but loaned to us, and Death had received his comminaton to bear her away from this dreary earth, and the tender care, and tears of mourning friends, and the skill of a kind physician could not keep her from his cold embrace. She has gone from the hearts that loved ber, gone from the home she made so bright. Darling we should still the aching of our heart for we know thou art safely folded in the arms of the Good Shepherd, but oil how we yearn for thy dear face and sweet voice, how we miss you. Oh! if beyond deaths swelling flood there was no sternal shore, if for the struggling bark there was no port of peace, if athwart this dark cloud sprang no bright how of promise,

"Alas! for love if this he all
And naught beyond, Oh! Death."

But we are comforted, loved one, for though you cannot come back to us, we may go to thee, and 'its sweater to think of Heaven now, that Bettie is there, and may father, mother, brothers and sister and all who watched this sweet lamb fall asiesp in death, live pursar better lives ever after, so that we may meet her in the "better world."

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT. MARY A. CALDWELL, died at the residence of her father, in Polk county, Tenn., April 19th, 1802—wife of W. I. Caldwell, and daughter of

My loving wife, my bosom friend, The object of my love; Has left me and my babe, and gone To God above.

Too bright a jewel on earth to stay
With me and my sweet babe;
Therefore the Lord called her away,
Her precious soul to save.

Sleep on, dear wife, and take thy rest,
Happy is thy sleep;
God called thee home; He thought it best;
Why therefore should I weep?

I have to weep, my Mary dear, Because that thou art gone; I am a lonely volunteer, So far away from home.

Would, dear Mary, the time was now, As when I sought thy love; Joy and youth was on thy brow, But now thou art above.

Farewell, my loving, angel-wife, Thou cannot ne'er return to me, For thou hast passed from death to life, Time to eternity.

I hope to meet thee beyond the sky; Where parting is no more;
For there we shall never die;
No pain nor sorrow will we know.

Many M. Davis, Knoxville.

May 30, 1862-tf-714 MASONIC FEMALE INSTITUTE, CLEVELAND, TENN. Rev. I. N. Bradshaw, Principal.

THE NEXT SESSION OF THIS INSTITUTE tion will commence on Monday, the 1st day suprember next, under the direction and professorship of the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, who has had charge of it for the last ten mouths.

The Trustees, in making this announcement, would most especially appeal to all citizens who have daughters to educate, to send them to this institution. Mr. Bradshaw has had charge of the school for the last ten months, during which time have endored ample, and we might say, unit. institution. Mr. Bradshaw has had charge of the school for the last ten months, during which time he has rendered ample, and, we might say, universal satisfaction to the Trustees, patrons and pupils. There never was a better time for men to educate their daughters than now—money is plenty—everything a farmer raises bears two prices, and the Tuition to this School is the same that it was when everything was at low figures. What excuse can there be now for a man who neglects to educate his daughter? None. Because here, in Cleveland, a healthy locality, we have an Institution, with an excellent Instructor, aided by a sufficient corps of Assistants, to instruct all who may favor it with their patronage. Let one and all put their shoulder to the wheel and build up such a School as will be of incalculable benefit to us and an honor to our town.—We have the building and we have the teachers—the balance devolves upon the people. We hope they may nobly perform their duty.

The Trustees are thankful to the citizens for the patronage bestowed upon Mr. Bradshaw heretofore, and are glad to know that under his administration, the Institution has not lost any of the envisable reputation it sustained in "the better days of the Republic."
